

Throughout the call, you will be able to use residual hearing to hear the other party speaking to you, while receiving "captions" that transcribe their spoken words. The captions are generated via voice a recognition technology that allows you to conduct telephone calls in a more efficient and natural manner.